Opening the Word across the generations

"Retirement was looming, and I needed a project with purpose and a sense of mission," explains Irene Nicholson.

A flyer about Open the Book appeared at Hopton Primary school. This lively act of collective worship with a script and Bible stories, with quiet time for reflection and all-inclusive prayer is taken into school by groups of people from any local church. "That was 13 years ago!" reflects Irene. "Now two of us form the team together with the children who create the picture for the story and help to lead the worship.

"One light-bulb moment was when I monitored the worship as a foundation governor and asked a little boy what the thought about our telling of the story of The Good Shepherd. He said 'I was the shepherd in that. Open the Book story. It made me feel protected because Jesus will look after all of his sheep. What a privilege!"

Foreword from Bishop Jane

This quarter's Prayer Diary is focused on "becoming". As Christ transforms us, we are becoming the people we were created to be.

What are you becoming? Somebody once told me a very helpful question she had been asked: "What sort of a 93-year-old would you like to be?" Our Diocesan Vision answers that question for us very well: we, when we are older than we are now, would like to have been transformed by Christ, so that we are people of prayer, pastoral care and prophetic insight.

But how are we to co-operate with the Lord in this transformation? Prayer must be at the heart of our answer to that, which is silent as well as spoken, prayer to which we give time and attention.

"Attention" is the key word here. We are changed by that to which we give attention. If we spend our time fuelling

Please note that the content is compiled some weeks in advance of production, so although all facts are correct at time of press, they may not be by the end of the quarter. Thanks for your understanding.

A journey of 'becoming'

The calling of Licensed Lay Ministry in the Church of England is a distinctive one. One such person training to be a lay minister in the diocese is Lee Mansden from St Catherine's, Milk Cross, Norwich. Lee explained that he felt called to ministry when paying for direction whilst working at the University of East Anglia. He recalls a deep sense of being called to minister alongside those outside the church as a pioneer lay minister.

As he set out on that 'journey of becoming', an unexpected twist emerged. In meeting some of his mentors, Lee began to draw links to his own past, about the time he spent working for the homeless. An opportunity to do that through housing for the homeless, was a charity partnering with churches to house the homeless, was taken and the university career set aside as an act of faith and next step on that journey. www.hopenintoxaction.org.uk

The calling of a Warden

Ian Newton is the sole Churchwarden of St Andrew's Field Dalling, part of a multi-parish benefice in rural North Norfolk. "It's quite a commitment" he smiles. "Even when worshiping communities are small, the church has a unique and vital role to play in the wider community." He's passionate about what he does and is enjoying supporting (non paid) volunteers in his parish and the congregation to care for the building and churchyard.

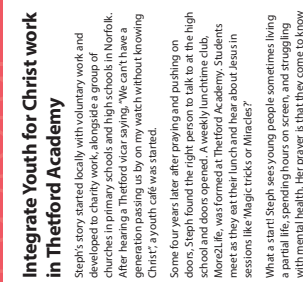

He represents St Andrew's at Parish Council meetings and instead of grumbling and complaining, he's happy to draw on his experience as a Churchwarden for the PCC. The church's outreach and engagement emerges from Ian's ongoing that the church be a visible and vibrant presence serving the whole community. There are many practical projects. Next on the agenda? An operation with the architect on the slating of a new roof. "Please pray that we wardens might remember why we do such things", he says.

Visionary founders, inspiring staff

All are welcome at 3.30pm on 25 September at a special service in the Cathedral to mark the 250th anniversary of the Norfolk and Norwich University Hospital. Who knows how many of you have already served at hospital chaplains during that time?

One of the current chaplains is Canon Daren Thornton. When pandemic struck, the university chaplaincy where he ministered closed overnight so he offered himself as a hospital chaplain instead and, following work in the Norfolk and Norwich University Hospital, he ministered at home. When a full-time post came up, he applied encouraged by colleagues who saw with clarity that God was calling Daren to join them. He loves it, deeply fulfilled in the task of bringing hope to the bed-sides of the sick and dying. "It's a privilege to bring something of God into desperate situations", he says. "And it's a great place to work – those doctors and nurses are miracle workers!"

Integrate Youth for Christ work in Thetford Academy

Steph's story started locally with voluntary work and developed to charity work, alongside a group of students in primary schools and high schools in Norfolk. In 2021 she started at Thetford Academy. The first generation passing us by on my watch without knowing Christ's youth café was started.

Some four years later after praying and pushing on doors, Steph found the right person to talk to at the high school. She doors opened up to a weekly lunchtime club. Monday afternoons, Steph and the young students meet as they eat their lunch and hear about Jesus in sessions like Magic tricks or Miracles? What a start! Steph sees young people sometimes living a partial life, spending hours on screen, and struggling with mental health. Her prayer is that they come to know the love of Jesus and have to the full! (John.10.10). www.integrate4christ.org.uk

Called to creation care

Eleven-year-old Madeleine Humphries from Norwich has always been interested in protecting nature. As lockdown restrictions eased, Madeleine joined a community litter-picking group in the city but wanted to do more. 'I love the seaside and I want to help the wildlife. It's good because God made the world and the creatures in it, and we've got to look after them. A seal was bobbing up and down watching us as we cleared up. The worst part was finding 40 dog poo bags in an hour, people stuff them down animal dens and in their nests. It was exhausting, but I hope we saved a lot of wildlife that day.'

Madeleine and her mum joined Norfolk Beach Cleans on their monthly litter pick in Great Yarmouth. The Great Big Green Week is the UK's biggest celebration of community action to tackle climate change and protect nature. Can you get involved?

SUN 25 THANK YOU!

Thank you for the seals in Norfolk, swimming like dogs in the sea, and for the birds on the beach, and the small wildlife and insects that live in the needs. It makes me feel so happy to see them and sad to see the litter that needs clearing up. (Madeleine, age 11 years)

O God, you call each one of us to care for creation: as we thank you for Madeleine's response to humanity's violation of your world, we pray that we too may hear your summons to protect and protect.

If my people who are called by my name humble themselves, pray, seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways, then I will hear from heaven and will forgive their sin and heal their land.

2 Chronicles 7

The Peace Globe at Norwich Cathedral

Sonnet-Prayer

I stand like Peter, Lord, amazed by grace,
That I, who have betrayed, am called to love,
That in the church you love I find a place
Restored in you, with nothing left to prove.
More than a place! I am assigned a task:
To share again the care that I've been given
To meet another's needs before they ask
And nudge your flock towards the gates of heaven.

So nurture me that I may nurture others
And pastor me that I may pastor them.
Let me not scatter, but be one who gathers
And brings to you all those who touch your hem.
Help me to help them, simply as I am
Like you, the Shepherd who is still the Lamb.

Shepherds at Christmas Alive! Fountain of Life, Ashill

A space to wrestle and belong

By lunchtime on the day we met the Revd Jack Branford has already had his regular meeting with the Headmaster, taught a Year 10 RE lesson and visited the browed family with whom he's planning the funeral of a parent. He has been Chaplain at Gresham's School for two years, and delights in the "incredible privilege" of the role. His own chaplain at Norwich School was "great when I was wrestling with life's big questions" and it was there that Jack came to faith. Since ordination, he's felt powerfully drawn to school chaplaincy himself.

It is now his turn to offer space for wrestling. But everyone also craves a sense of belonging and through his welcome, encouragement and pastoral care, Jack offers this too. "This is your Chapel" he tells the Gresham's community often. Sixty of its members – both students and staff – have been baptised and/or confirmed in the last 12 months.

It's never too late...

"Perhaps I shouldn't be surprised," reflects Elizabeth Hargis, who was commissioned as an Authorised Worship Assistant (AWA) just last year, "because leading worship is in my DNA. Her father was a priest and her grandfather a bishop and even ordained ministry, but family commitments were always the stronger call. Newly aware of AWA ministry, however, the call came again, more strongly."

A youthful 79, full of energy and enthusiasm, Elizabeth now regularly leads weekday Morning Prayer (pictured) as well as Sunday Services of the Word across the North Westham benefits. She is part of the Lay Chalice Assistant team, oversees a weekly hour of silent prayer and takes the reserved sacrament to people in their homes. "That has been such a joy for me as I pray to bring together love and about this side of the table, the table of God's Word and people's everyday lives."

Hospitality and home

"Jesus' invitation of relationship is based on a metaphor of hospitality," says Anna Loyd, quoting Revelation 3:20: "Here I am! Stand at the door and knock. If anyone hears my voice and opens the door, I will come in and eat with that person."

"I have always felt called to cultivate safe and loving spaces of hospitality, growing up in vicarages, I loved seeing the impact sharing our home had on people. From a cup of tea, to offering individuals a place to stay for a season, joining in with God's heart for hospitality has been something which has become second nature. It is why we so enjoyed helping create spaces like The Sanctuary and The Mire in Norwich, and why our recent decision to invite a displaced Ukrainian family to come and live with us was so easy. My only prayer is to encourage us all to know what it is to 'swell in the house of the Lord forever' (Psalm 23)."

Walking with those in grief

"I didn't feel called to work for TimeNorfolk," says Lindsay Nettleton. "It felt more of a timely push through an open door! A client was supporting ended a wanted pregnancy due to medical reasons. It was heartbreaking. Being alongside her in her grief and intense isolation changed me. I referred her to TimeNorfolk and discovered the job vacancy. It wasn't a role I felt equipped for, and I didn't want it if it wasn't where God wanted me. But various confirmations from all angles led to me becoming Head of Counselling and Training. Four years on and I love the role and all it brings. The staff team share a Christian faith which sustains us when alongside those grieving pregnancy loss or facing an unplanned pregnancy. I feel privileged to be part of an organisation that cares for people in their darkest places and seeing hope grow in often unexpected ways."

Becoming aware

In 2016 Blessing Chishanga, having grown up in Zimbabwe and studied theology in Namibia, had a call to serve the church in Lowestoft. Coming to England required finding a place to belong and getting to grips with cultural differences in the church. Blessing has found the African philosophy of 'ubuntu' and its relationship to our Christian witness helpful. "Ubuntu" is an ethic that gives high regard to the relationship between the collective and the individual. The individual exists in the context of the collective. Blessing says, "I may not understand everyone's language nor have a palate for your foods, but I do know when I'm truly loved. As we journey together on the basis of a love given in Christ for the other, then the rest will naturally fall in place. Finding home for communities of difference, often has to do with finding communities where the love of Christ is tangibly discerned."

SUN 30 A CONSTANT CALL

O God, you long for us to live life in all its fullness, we thank you for the constancy of your call upon our lives and pray for grace to hear the way that call may evolve across a lifetime. Grant us the humility and courage to be open and obedient to it.

All are called to hear the voice of creation

The Rt Revd Graham Usher
Bishop of Norwich and lead bishop on environment

The care of creation is not an extra for a life of discipleship but an integral part to the choices we make as we walk with Jesus. It should, therefore, be infused in our penitence and praise, our prayer and preaching.

As followers of Christ from around the globe, we share a common call to care for creation. We are co-creators, and part of all that God has made. Our wellbeing is interwoven with the wellbeing of the Earth. During this season of Pentecost, we have an opportunity to take stock of how we are doing in our common home and all being who share it.

Faced with the reality of brokenness, suffering and death, Christ's incarnation and resurrection becomes the hope for reconciling and healing the Earth.

This summer we experienced days of extreme heat and wildfires destroyed people's homes and creatures' habitats here in Norfolk. The prevalence of unnatural fires are one sign of the devastating effects that climate change has on the most vulnerable of our planet. Human greed and land misuse has led to the disintegration of ecosystems, the destruction of habitats, and the loss of livelihoods and species at an alarming rate. Creation cries out as forests crackle and animals flee. People are forced to migrate due to the fires of injustice that we have caused.

through worship, repentance and action. Moses was told to remove his sandals, for he was standing on holy ground in God's presence. Perhaps we need to remove the "sandals" of our unsustainable lifestyles that disconnect us from creation and our Creator, contemplate our connection to the holy ground where we live, and listen for the voice of creation.

In all of this, I hope that we can keep praying with a hope-filled realism, knowing with the Psalmist, "and the heavens are telling the glory of God." The heavens are telling the glory of God. Day to the human for, by their right to night declares knowledge, their voice is not heard; yet their voice goes out through all the Earth, and their words to the end of the world." (Ps 148)

Choosing to weave creation care through our prayer and action helps us listen to the voice of God, as well as the voices of those made in the image of God, the individuals, communities, species, and ecosystems who are silenced. In prayer we and livelihoods are threatened by habitat loss and climate change. In prayer we centre the cry of the Earth and the cry of the poor, as we strive to be people of good news for God's earth.

Give us hearts to listen for the good news of your promise to renew the face of the Earth. Enlighten us with the grace to follow the Way of Christ as we learn to walk lightly upon this holy ground. Fill us with the hope to quench the fires of injustice with the light of your healing love that sustains our common home.

Discerning the way forward

In 2018, Ashley Hobbs came to Norwich to explore God's call on her life. She lived in a city flat with three others who'd also responded to the invitation from this diocese to join the Ministry Experience Scheme. She'd initially assumed it was only for those explicitly exploring ordination but "God made it clear that this was one of the paths on my journey".

Three years later, she looks back on a rich, influential year which taught her many things. From living with others, Ash learnt about human complexity; being offered a taste of many forms of ministry gave her the confidence to think bigger about how "I might share God's good news"; the theological modules on offer quickened her eagerness to learn and deepened her faith. Despite some difficult moments, she reflects, "this year opened my mind and helped me discern God's call to work with children and young people".

WED 19 WORTHY OF OUR CALLING

Beckoning God, you are full of surprises, sometimes leading us in directions we had never expected. Reassure us, we pray, empower and equip us for whatever lies ahead, and make us worthy of our calling.

"Oh God, where are we going today?"

Licensed Lay Worker Carrie Sants' calling begins by seeking to offer her days to God and to be available where a need is needed, then stepping back in it, asking God to lead in discerning the path forward. Her vision is being shared for many years amongst the marginalised. Her vision is setting up a community group 12 years ago was to help people build new social networks by working together to do good works. She is now retired but work initiated by the group was passed on and continues through various charities.

Carrie is humbly seeking ways to avoid forcing people into moulds. Her attitude is to learn from, to encourage and to pass the baton to see individuals fulfil their own calling. She continues to go where God is calling her at any particular time. Faith being for her "a way of life not just a system of belief".
